

Bodies of two dead men with stab wounds found

Monday, 03 June 2013 16:23 -

Two unidentified men were stabbed to death at the vicinity of the Chinese cemetery in San Roque early morning yesterday.

The victims' identities remain unknown as of press time.

DZT gathered that two bodies were discovered before 6 a.m. by some residents who reported it to the police for investigation.

Police said the victims' bodies bore stab wounds believed to have been inflicted by an ice-pick.

The victims are not residents of the said place as no one in the area could identify them.

The bodies were brought to the Villa Funeral Parlor for post mortem examination.

Police were still trying to determine the identities and backgrounds of the victims.

Investigators are also verifying reports from some residents who said that the victims were thieves.

Villa Funeral Parlor told DZT yesterday that the dead men's identities were still unknown. – Dan Toribio Jr.
